

Aboriginal art competition entry form

Information for entrants

Smoking is a big problem in our community. To help address smoking, a competition is running for the Aboriginal community to create an artwork which highlights the impact of smoking and ways that smoking can be addressed by the community.

Artworks must be related to the issue of smoking in the Aboriginal community, and could show:

- How badly smoking affects our community
- The benefits of a smoke free environment
- How we can address smoking in our community
- How quitting smoking can be supported by the community

Artworks could be focussed on one of the following groups of people:

- Our whole family
- Pregnant women
- Aboriginal youth
- Our Elders

As part of the competition, local organisations are hosting art workshops led by Aboriginal artist Kylie Cassidy. Artworks do not need to be produced at a workshop to be entered in the competition.

Entries to the art competition could be created in any type of format – drawing, cartoon, photography, video, music, dance etc.

Judging: the Aboriginal community is invited to vote on their favourite artworks. Voting is open from 18th June until 12th July. Vote at: www.surveymonkey.com/r/art-comp
